

Kehat Schor

February 21, 1919, Podu Iloaiei, Romania – September 6, 1972, Fürstenfeldbruck

Kehat Schor survived the Holocaust in hiding in the Carpathian Mountains of Romania. He married in 1946; his daughter was born three years later. For many years, the family tried in vain to emigrate to Israel. It was not until 1963 that the Romanian regime finally permitted them to leave the country.

A well-known marksman, Schor immediately found employment as a coach in Israel. He soon took charge of the national team, which he accompanied to the Olympic Games in Mexico in 1968.

In Munich he also supervised the two marksmen who had qualified for the Games. Schor was taken hostage on Connollystrasse. His athletes, Henry Hershkovitz and Zelig Shtorch, managed to flee.

Kehat Schor died of a bullet wound in Fürstenfeldbruck during the failed liberation attempt.

2 Kehat Schor and his wife Sarah (back) with friends at the swimming pool, Iași, Romania, 1946

3 Kehat (2nd from right) and Sarah Schor (2nd from left) at their daughter Michal's wedding, Tel Aviv, 1971

1 Kehat and Sarah Schor with their daughter Michal, Romania, 1949

4 Team badge on Kehat Schor's jacket, which he wore at the Munich Summer Olympics. Israel, 1972

“S.F.I. – Sports Federation of Israel”